Behind the Tiles

Glass tile is arguably the most beautiful and exclusive watershape finish material. It can be delicate stuff and how it's made is crucial to long-term performance. On March 31, Watershape University presented an in-depth webinar featuring David Knox, the creative genius behind Lightstreams Glass Tile, who explains some of the science and even philosophy behind the material that turns water into art.

Big and Beautiful

Rico Rock was recently asked to provide its GFRC panels to create a large waterfeature for an even grander lagoon made by the Chilean firm, Crystal Lagoons, a company that has set records around the globe for creating the largest recirculated swimming pools ever built. The result is a stunning feature on the “shore” of a Texas housing and resort development that offers luxury in a dynamic recreational setting.

Remembering Al Rizzo

The pool and spa industry recently lost one of its founding fathers and most influential figures, the magnetic, always colorful and sometimes irascible, Al Rizzo. His career building pools spanned more than six decades, during which time he doggedly worked to unify and elevate the industry he loved.
