Viva Versace!

The fabled Versace Mansion in Miami Beach is a place rich with history, luxury, style and even infamy. Now a boutique hotel and gourmet restaurant, JC Escudero recently visited and photographed the historic property, taking a deep dive into the Versace legend, eclectic design tradition, and a rich taste of the good life.

A Living Tribute

The presence of water in the landscape can stir deep emotions, and sometimes even help soothe the pain of a lost loved one. That was the case in the project described here, where a beautiful stream and waterfall installation serves as a centerpiece of a property that is devoted to love, remembrance and grieving.

Growth in Motion

Embracing change is not always easy, it can take courage, foresight, wisdom and sometimes luck. Veteran watershaper, Kevin Woodhurst has been through many such passages in his long career, but perhaps none more rewarding than a recent move to a new home and into a new chapter.

WATERSHAPES WORLD BLOG

Old West, New West

The most beautiful bodies of man-made water aren't worth much without the people who maintain them. The profound importance, and enduring nature, of the traditional independent pool service industry was on Eric Herman's mind as he attended this year's, forty-fifth edition of the Western Pool & Spa Show.
